

Terms of use for iPropel Website

These terms apply to you and us if you use our website and platform

Information on this website and platform

The information on this website and platform is for general use. It is not advice, it may contain errors and omissions, and you must not rely on it except where we make representations about the iPropel business.

Representations, warranties, and liability

We make no representation or warranty about the information on this website, except where a representation or warranty is implied by law. To the maximum extent permitted by law, iPropel is not responsible or liable for any loss or damage (including for any indirect or consequential loss) relating to access or use of this website or its content, or the iPropel platform.

Links from this website

Links to other websites are provided for convenience. We are not responsible for, and do not endorse or approve of, any information on any site linked to or accessed from this website.

Intellectual property

The information on this website is protected by copyright. You may download or display any of it for personal use, but you must obtain our permission to use or reproduce it in any other way. You may not use any of our trademarks or logos on this website unless we first give you our written consent.

Availability

The information on this website, and the products and services it refers to, are available for use by Australian residents only (and in some cases for residents of particular States as indicated).

Changes to these terms and conditions

We may change these terms of use at any time by publishing a revised version on this website. Any reference to 'we' or 'us' in these terms of use refers to iPropel Pty Ltd (ABN 42 622 243 574) or any of their related parties.